Are you interested in building strong connections with your peers who have a similar interest in Psychology?

Would you like to participate in monthly activities and experiences outside of the classroom to enhance your learning?

Do you want to work closely with peer mentors, faculty, and academic advisors?

If you said YES to any of the questions above, keep reading to learn more about this opportunity!

How It Works

This group will include 30 first-year students who will take the same sections of classes together, which will count toward their major in Psychology.

- Introductory Psychology class, which includes a larger lecture, and a smaller lab section devoted specifically to the First-Year Interest Group students
- Wayne Experience (WE) course, which is a first-year requirement, as part of your interest group block
- Social Inquiry (SI) course, which will count toward your general education requirements

The Courses

The block includes the following courses (8 credits):

- PSY 1010 Introductory Psychology
  - Online Lecture: Mondays and Wednesdays from 1:00pm to 2:15pm
  - In-person Lab: Tuesdays from 9:30am to 11:10am
- SOC 1010 Understanding Human Society
  - In-person Lecture: Tuesdays and Thursdays from 11:30am to 12:45pm
- FYS 1010 Learning with the Brain in Mind
  - In-person Lecture: Tuesdays from 1:30pm to 2:20pm

How to Join

Please contact the Psychology First-Year Interest Group Coordinator, Corinne Forsy at cforys@wayne.edu or scan/click the QR code on the right to join.

Visit wayne.edu/registrar/fig for additional information.